

Bulletin #22 9 December 2005

Subject: Seats and Head & Neck Restraints

Overview: Rally America strongly recommends that all competitors use an SFI 38.1 certified head and neck restraint. The 2006 Rally America rule book will continue to mandate a single point of release (see 5.1.D p.32 2005 Rally America rule book).

Competitors should expect that any future requirement for use of head and neck restraints will include only products which are FIA or SFI certified.

Rally-America strongly recommends that all competitors use an FIA approved seat that includes side head restraints. The use of SFI approved seating may be recommended in the future, pending the review of the SFI standard and available products.

Competitors should expect that any future seat requirement will include only products which are FIA or SFI certified.
